VETERAN RUSS FIGHTERS SENT AGAINST FINNS

Replace Callow Conscripts
Whom Defenders Have Beaten Back

VIIIPURI IS STILL UNDER HEAVY FIRE

War's First Major Battle
Imminent, Observers
Believe

HELSINKI, Dec. 30.—The war's first major battle was imminent today, many military experts believed, as veteran Red troops replaced callow conscripts under cover of a continuous artillery bombardment of Finland's Karelian isthmus defenses.

With Soviet Russian cannon raking the woods in front of the Mannerheim line, Finnish officers said experienced soldiers were relieving in some sections the youngsters whom the Finns have beaten back since the war started Nov. 30.

Balloons Are Used
Use of captive observation balloons in an attempt to learn the Finnish positions on the isthmus was reported for the first time today.

The Finns indicated this maneuver would not be very profitable, since they are able to dig into their native woodlands so expertly that detection is almost impossible.

Viiipuri, largest city on the isthmus and the second largest in all Finland, continued to undergo artillery fire. Normally of 55,000 population, it now is almost completely empty save for the most necessary residents.

The coastal base of Koivisto also was bombarded heavily, and active fighting was noted along the Leningrad-Viiipuri railway in further support of the theory that Russia was massing strength for an attempted break-through on the isthmus.

No Reports on Finns
There were no new reports of Finnish operations on Soviet soil, which they were said to have penetrated at two points on the eastern front and at a third in the far north. All were said to be aimed primarily at cutting the Russian railroad to Murmansk.

(Reports in Copenhagen said Finnish ski troops had cut off 10,000 Russian troops from communications with their base near Salla, on the eastern front.)

(These dispatches indicated the Finns, commanded on that front by Gen. Kurt Martti Wallenius, were gathering a force to surround the Russians and push them into a decisive encounter northeast of Kemijarvi.)

Gain Is Revealed For Cupid in 1939

LISBON, Dec. 30.—Cupid's business in Columbian county showed a decided increase for 1939, with 846 marriage licenses issued in the probate court here by Judge H. W. Hammond. Only 697 licenses were issued during 1938.

June, as usual, was the month of brides, with 107 marriage licenses issued. August, with 97, rated second. Licenses issued during the other months were as follows: January, 34; February, 40; March, 41; April, 23; May, 59; July, 81; September, 82; October, 89; November, 90; and December, 72.

Train Derailed In Texas; 21 Injured

ORANGE, Tex., Dec. 30.—Five coaches of a Southern Pacific passenger train piled up in a drainage ditch at the outskirts of Orange today, injuring 21 persons.

A section worker said he believed a broken rail on the trestle was responsible for the derailment.

Two pullmans, two baggage cars and the day coach were the cars derailed.

Last Hunting Day

STOUFFER SETS AIDS' SALARIES

Rescinds, In Part, Tobin-
Mauro Program of Last Week

LISBON, Dec. 30.—Prosecuting Attorney Karl T. Stouffer today rescinded in part certain changes in personnel made one week ago, at which time Assistant Guy Mauro, collector of delinquent taxes and court costs, was elevated to first assistant, and Attorney Louis Tobin was demoted to the post of second assistant.

It is presumed that under the revision made today, Mauro will continue in his former post, while Tobin will assist in preparation of cases for presentation to the grand jury and the prosecution of indictments.

Prosecutor Stouffer instructed County Auditor Ross Tisher today that the salaries of both Tobin and Mauro will be $205 per month, beginning Jan. 1, when the new appointments are effective. Tobin previously had been cut from $215 to $200 per month while Mauro had been raised from $200 to $205.

Stouffer said that in respect to designation of first and second assistants, "I shall handle this within my office from day to day as circumstances warrant." The original change as announced by Stouffer was made necessary, he said, in view of the fact that both he and Tobin would of necessity spend some time out of the office campaigning, the latter being a candidate for prosecuting attorney, while he will seek the common pleas bench.

"Secession" Request Denied by Stouffer

LISBON, Dec. 30.—Prosecuting Attorney Karl T. Stouffer, in an opinion to the county commissioners in regard to an application filed by the residents of Washington township asking that the village of Salineville and the township be divorced and another township should be created, citing a section of the General Code as a basis for the decision.

The petition gave as grounds for the partition the fact that the majority vote of the township is in Salineville, and the rural district cannot elect a trustee and be properly represented.

MORE TREMORS HIT ANATOLIA

New Rumblings Bring Fear of Additional Quake Disaster

(By Associated Press)

ANKARA, Dec. 30.—New violent earth tremors in the vicinity of Tokat in northern Anatolia brought fears today of an additional disaster as officials reported direct from Erzurum province that deaths there would total at least 40,000.

The new quakes were accompanied by deep underground rumblings, but the extent of damage was not determined immediately. The first trainload of injured from the great earthquake of Wednesday was enroute to Ankara. The victims, all in need of surgical attention, included a number of high ranking Turkish officers and one general.

Military planes flew over Erzurum, dropping bundles of food and clothing to survivors who huddled half-naked in snow-covered fields.

Gen. Kiazim Orbay was in charge of aiding survivors and digging victims from the countless ruined buildings.

Rescue of many persons in the isolated districts appeared hopeless as snow continued to block highway and rail communications.

Officials said children and women particularly were falling victims to the continued bitter cold, 25 and 30 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit.

The entire Turkish nation was mobilized for relief, and help was sent from other countries.

It was announced that great Britain contributed $100,000 (about $400,000).

All New Year's parties in Turkey were cancelled to help work out of the relief problem and care of the homeless survivors.

Developing reports from the stricken districts of Antolia portrayed tragic losses which will take at least many months to remedy even if the new quakes do not interfere.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 30.—Ohioans bent on welcoming 1940's arrival bolsterously with crooked elbow were admonished by law enforcement officers today to leave their cars at home and enjoy themselves.

Forecasts of additional snow on pavements still slippery from winter's first big state-wide storm brought warnings from apprehensive authorities that motorists would pay dearly for driving while "under the influence."

Salem's New Year's celebration is destined to be observed quietly.

Gay Weekend Seen
Club and hotel reservations for Saturday and Sunday night parties coupled with heavy liquor store sales presaged a rousing send off for prosperous 1939 and a gay greeting for his successor over the holiday weekend extending through Monday.

Many of the brighter spots in Cleveland and Toledo will do their celebrating tonight, Columbus was divided between tonight and tomorrow while Sunday night was favored in Cincinnati, Dayton and Youngstown. Many who can "take it" will swing both nights.

State liquor agents have been ordered to enforce rigidly opening and closing hours for bars. Most permit holders must halt liquor sales at 1 a. m. Sunday and night club license owners at 2:30 a. m., unless local ordinances ban Sunday sales.

For Sunday night celebrants, bars can't open until midnight and then they'll have only a maximum of 2 1/2 hours for sale of alcoholic drinks. They can reopen under state law at 5:30 a. m. Monday.

Columbus ordered out 42 police squad cars as a weekend safety precaution while in Akron, Police Chief Ray Williams directed the protective arrest of tipsy pedestrians.

Driving Conditions Bad
Col. Lynn Black, state highway patrol superintendent, described driving conditions as "the worst in four or five years" and urged extreme caution.

Mansfield and Newark police looked to a midnight closing ban on bars to lighten their holiday duties but Columbus lifted for the occasion its no Monday-morning bar rule.

Several cities including Alliance and Middletown have 1 a. m. closing ordinances. Middletown officials last night refused pleas of tavern keepers to permit liquor sales after that hour.

On the quieter side, most churches will observe the new year Sunday with special services or watch night programs.

Gov. John W. Bricker and his family left Columbus to spend a quiet weekend at some undisclosed place.

Two Youths Nabbed After Holdup Spree

TOLEDO, Dec. 30.—James Dailey, 53, a Sylva, O. High school bus driver was shot and several Toledo gasoline service stations held up by two youths who went on a brief but spectacular crime outburst last night.

The bandits were captured by Lucas county deputy sheriffs after a running gun battle in which an 85-mile-an-hour speed was reached. The chase ended when the stolen car used by the suspects crashed into a shop. The suspects, who gave the names of Henry Jones and Roy Stevens, have admitted shooting Dailey and the three service station holdups. Deputy William Lewland said. Dailey, shot in the leg and chest, is in Toledo hospital. His condition is not critical.

PEACE CONTEST SET FOR JAN. 7

Louis Raymond of Salem
To Be Entry In District
Event In Alliance

Louis Raymond of Salem, one of three Columbiana county winners in the Prince of Peace contest, will compete in a district contest in the First Methodist church at Alliance on Sunday, Jan. 7. It was announced today.

According to Rev. B. P. Lamb, executive secretary of the Ohio Council of Churches, other counties to be represented in the Alliance event are Mahoning, Ashtabula, Summit and Wayne.

The winner will receive a gold medal and will become eligible to enter the state contest in Columbus, in which cash prizes and college scholarships will be awarded.

This contest will be one of 21 district competitions to be held in the state this year in the annual contest sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches. A total of 144 boys and girls of high school age who have won silver medals in their respective counties will participate.

These 144 are the "survivors" among 4,000 who entered the opening contests in their local churches throughout the state on Armistice Sunday.

Automobile Sales
Increased In 1939

LISBON, Dec. 30.—New automobile sales for the first 11 months of 1939 exceeded by 707 the new units sold during the corresponding period in 1938, a report in the office of Clerk of Courts Carl Stacey revealing that certificates of title were issued for 1,750 up until Dec. 1, this year.

Last year 1,057 certificates of title were issued in the first 11 months and a total of 1,198 for the year.

March was the banner month when 263 new cars were sold, May and November recording 208 and 203, respectively, this year. The same months led in sales last year also, with certificates of title being filed on 169 in March, 163 in November, 117 in May and 141 in December.

TWO ARRESTED FOR KIDNAPING

Pair Who Abducted Freedom Man Are Caught
In Cleveland

Two Cleveland youths were apprehended by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents today for the abduction of Theodore Fairley, 22, of Freedom, Pa., who was dumped from his car along Route 14, near Unity, last Friday.

The pair will be arraigned Tuesday in federal court at Cleveland on charges of violating the Lindbergh kidnapping law.

The warrant by the FBI officers charges Mike Balynt, 18, and Joseph Gondos, 22, with the abduction of the Pennsylvania.

Fairley identified the youths as the hitch-hikers who slugged and robbed him of $18 and threw him out of his car near Unity after bringing him from Pennsylvania into Ohio.

Police at Cleveland shot the youths Wednesday night in an automobile chase after the two failed to make a boulevard stop. Both suffered leg wounds.

Detective Albert Morris said Balynt and Gondos confessed an $18 Sandusky gasoline station robbery the night of Dec. 23.

Morris said the pair held up the station attendant and a customer. The officer also reported the Clevelanders admitted "rolling a drunk" at Lorain the same night, obtaining $2 or $3. Police said the Sandusky attendant would view the youths today.

CITY COUNCIL MEETS TONIGHT

New Officers to Be Sworn In At "Farewell"
Session

The status of the safety and service director positions was studied today by Norman Phillips, Democratic mayor-elect, as he and other members of the new Salem city administration prepared to assume control of the operation and management of the city, effective at midnight Sunday.

Phillips was sworn in last night by Mayor George Harroff, but most of the other officials will be inducted at a farewell meeting of city council at 7:30 tonight in city hall.

Undecided on Date

The mayor-elect pondered the question of whether his safety and service director appointees would take office Jan. 1 as he anticipated, or wait until Monday, Jan. 8, the date which state law sets as the beginning of their terms.

Mayor-elect Phillips recently announced the appointment of Charles Kennedy as service director and John T. (Jack) Rafferty as safety director.

Although under provisions of their appointment they cannot begin their terms until the second Monday in January, it is possible for the new mayor to make temporary appointments for the period from Jan. 1 to Jan. 8, in the event the present officials, Service Director Frank Wilson and Safety Director C. E. Donahy, resign Jan. 1.

Being appointive officials, they may be removed by the new mayor if he so chooses.

Will Survey Needs

The mayor-elect, who succeeds Harroff, Republican mayor for the last four years, said today that he had no immediate recommendations for operation of the various city departments before checking books and records to determine the financial status and needs of various departments.

Appointments to several bodies, such as the civil service commission and the board of health, to fill vacancies which will exist after the first of the year, will not be made until after Phillips has assumed office.

Phillips was Salem's mayor in 1934 and '35. Kennedy was his service director at that time.

Among appointees whose terms are expiring are E. F. Deagan as a member of the civil service commission, R. K. Yates on the board of health, and Dewey Montgomery as a member of the boxing commission.

Edgar C. Sheen, Jr., R. F. White and Dana Floding are members of the park commission but their terms do not expire at the present time, it is believed.

Changes in the police and firemen's pension boards will be made after the re-organization of city council Tuesday night. At this first meeting of the new year, Charles Cornwall, council president, is expected to announce committee appointments. The vice president of council and the clerk also will be chosen.

Others To Be Sworn In

Other city officials who will be sworn in tonight are Solicitor Henry L. Reese, Auditor Karl L. Webster, Treasurer Orvil Hoover, Council President Charles Cornwall and Councilmen C. F. Zimmerman, Arch H. Wentz, Charles Renkenberger, Fred Koenreich, Harry Vincent, A. P. Morris and Charles Rheutan.

Attending their last session will be Second Ward Councilman Emmor Taylor, succeeded by Wentz, and Councilman-at-Large John C. Litty, who is being replaced by Vincent. Taylor and Litty were not candidates for re-election.

Must Care for Guns In Cases of Arrest

COLUMBUS, Dec. 30.—Highway patrolmen may seize guns of hunters arrested for traffic violations but they must keep them in tip-top condition.

Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert told Col. Lynn Black, patrol superintendent, that the right of seizure was "well established," but that the patrolmen must not allow the weapons to become rusty or damaged. Colonel Black wanted the ruling for the patrolmen's future guidance.

Named by Mayor

WELLSVILLE, Dec. 30.—Charles A. Lewis, former Columbiana county investigator for the state division of aid for the aged, was appointed service-director yesterday by Mayor-elect W. M. Daugherty, Democrat, who will qualify on Monday.

BALANCE SHEET

If the books could be closed on 1939 while the world took inventory before starting into 1940, the report would look something like this:—

CREDITS—

Much of the world still at peace
Faith, Hope, Charity in good repair
Full stock of good intentions
Large deposits of useful information.
Ample reserve of plans, schemes etc.

LIABILITIES—

Three active wars
Discouragement caused thereby
Violence, hatred, muddleheadedness
Misuse of science, ideas and language
Barrenness of the human mind in the mass.

It would be found that the credits and liabilities are equal to each other, thus sustaining the notion that civilization still is a going institution and is in no immediate danger of bankruptcy. It would be nice to be able to carry over a surplus into 1940, but absence of a deficit is enough to justify the familiar greeting—

A HAPPY NEW YEAR!

OUR NATIONAL WEAKNESS

In a few more days the 10-place figures will begin to drape themselves through Washington news again. President Roosevelt's budget message will be festooned with barrels of them.

Sometimes these billionitis attacks seem remote, as though they were happening to some other government. It's tough to understand the size of money matters once they get beyond hundreds of dollars.

But when its big sums and deficits are simmered down, the national government's seen to be cursed by the same weakness as its citizens. It persists in looking always on the bright side of expenditures.

A study of the six New Deal budgets by Editorial Research reports shows that estimates of receipts have been close to the mark, except for the unexpected slump of 1937. Expenditures, however, have been higher than estimated, except for the first year before the spending program started to roll.

The New Deal has spent from 10 to 37 per cent more than it planned to spend every year, except the first one. Estimates of the net deficit, always optimistic in the budget message, have been as much as 500 percent too low in a single year. It still isn't politically fashionable to be brutally frank in the January budget message about July prospects.

To some extent this can be blamed on the administration. The rest can be blamed on congress, which has knuckled under to pressure groups. All of it can be blamed on something all Americans who try to live on budgets know about, particularly at this time of the year—the tendency to spend a little extra here and a little extra there and trust that something will turn up to take care of the deficit.

MORE TERRITORIAL READJUSTMENTS

Perhaps it's time human beings were reminded again that their hectic struggles to fix the earth's surface to suit themselves are puny compared with what's going on underneath them.

The major catastrophe in Turkey, being described in scattered reports from a vast area devastated by earthquakes, apparently has taken more lives and done more damage than the combined destructive power of the combatants in Europe since they began their latest war.

Philosophers trying to gain perspective on things that puzzle them are fond of projecting their minds to some imaginary height from which they can look down upon the earth. They see men as ants crawling about over its surface, scarcely visible, relatively unimportant.

It is the earth that is important—the earth and the elements that can assert complete mastery over men. The same areas over which armies fight today may be obliterated tomorrow. The courses of rivers, the shores of lakes and oceans may be altered overnight.

Man's tenacious grip on life and his possessions may be pried loose in an instant by some natural disaster on a scale that can't be approached by the destructive forces controlled by his own intelligence. The ultimate power to bestow and to take away lies outside human jurisdiction, a fact that never will keep men from trying to exercise it, but should add materially to their humiliation when approaching the matter.

HELPING HANDS FOR SAFETY

With belated arrival of the snow that winter enthusiasts profess to love there reappears the question of how to get rid of the stuff. Even the enthusiasts have to think about that.

Shoveling is the standard remedy, but not the standard practice, unfortunately. There always is a large percentage of householders who either like snow so well they won't disturb it, or dislike it so much they refuse to have anything to do with it.

Ice, which goes with snow as surely as remorse goes with New Year's eve, is something else again. It can't be shoveled or swept, and only a person of rare determination can chip it when it forms on sidewalks. It must be sanded or salted.

But this calls for sand and or salt, not always available. In this connection, Newark, N. J., according to operatives who find out what other up and coming cities are doing, places sand boxes equipped with shovels at strategic locations throughout the city.

When sand is needed, say for a slippery intersection or a bus stop, there it is. Shovel it yourself if that's the way you feel about it.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, December 31

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds auguries of many adverse or conflicting situations; there may be many opportunities for making the wrong decisions or doing the undesirable thing. This may be due to an inclination to resort to expediency rather than principle when critical matters come up for honest adjustment. It would be well to guard the health, especially in regard to mental or emotional strain.

Those whose birthday it is may find that they have to adjust some difficult, critical or menacing predicaments during the year. Matters may possibly be complicated or instigated by a tendency to handle affairs in the easiest way rather than on a basis of integrity and straightforwardness. Mental and emotional reactions for such stress may affect the health.

A child born on this day, while having stable qualities, may be prone to attain its objectives by easy rather than high-principled methods. It should be given early enlightenment and proper discipline.

For Monday, January 1

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a rather conflicting state of affairs, with customary engagements set aside for the happy indulgences of the hectic New Year's celebration. There are signs of social, domestic, romantic and emotional excitement, with all such functions under pleasant direction.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which the social, domestic, affectional and romantic interest, are accented, with affairs in other directions moving in routine grooves.

A child born on this day may be gentle, affable, friendly and sentimental. Its talents may lie in the direction of art, music, poetry or entertainment.

Herr Hitler doesn't seem to understand that really superior people don't gloat when they win and don't whine when they lose.

Wonders What New Year May Bring In Medicine

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
MY EDITOR suggests that I write an article looking towards the future and expressing my views as to what I would like to see happen in the future in medicine.

I think the most important thing is to clear up the virus diseases. This, of course, has been the object of intensive research all over the world in the last ten years. I list it first because it seems the most possible. We are just on the verge of finding the actual cause of infantile paralysis, smallpox, chickenpox, the common cold, mumps, measles and perhaps many other contagious diseases about which we are at present in the dark. When the cause is found, I believe methods of specific treatment will also be found.

When the great new science of bacteriology dawned on the world in the 1880's and 1890's, the causes of a number of diseases—diphtheria, typhoid fever, tetanus, meningitis—were found, and immediately serums for their treatment were developed. I hope the same thing will happen to this group of virus diseases.

Treatment for Neuritis.
Second, I hope that some sort of a labor-saving treatment will be perfected for the neuritis—the hypochondriacs, the neuroasthenics and the hysterics. Our present treatment is laborious, wasteful and not very successful. I have little hope of the accomplishment of this, but considering the enormous amount of economic and human waste that occurs in this field, it is certainly much to be desired.

I still want an instrument to measure the amount of pain as a thermometer measures the amount of fever, a subject which I mentioned several weeks ago.

An anesthetic for surgical and obstetrical cases, which will be 100 per cent safe, 100 per cent efficient and 100 per cent pleasant to take, is a dream that may become a reality at any moment.

It is difficult to think of anything that the surgeon needs. All we can hope for is that by the use of chemical and physical treatments, his field will become narrower and narrower.

Post-War Epidemics

A grim reality that we must face this year is the possibility of post-war epidemics. Not only was the world apparently ripe for another war in 1939, it is almost ripe for another influenza epidemic. The major epidemics have been from 25 to 40 years apart, and just as we have a whole new population that has never been immunized to influenza.

The assembling of great masses of men under conditions in which sanitation is difficult, and the movement of great numbers across wide areas of country, and where they come in contact with new populations, invariably mean the spread of disease.

We are told by Dr. J. H. D. Webster, of Edinburgh, with the same finality that an astronomer predicts the return of a comet or an eclipse, that a major epidemic of influenza will probably strike the world in February, 1941.

"Jesus and the Kingdom of God had to face fierce and persistent enemies. There have been foes to every good cause since the beginning of time. The struggle and battle between evil and good is a very ancient one. The brighter side of the picture is that the friends of the Savior and His Kingdom are many and truly loyal. Nothing has turned them from their devotion and service. The friends of God and of righteousness are on the winning side."

Worship and sermon at 11 a. m. Subject: "Jesus' Presentation."

"It was an old Jewish custom to present their children to God in the temple. This was an acknowledgment of this blessing through the kindness and goodness of God. An offering was made to express thanks. The custom led many to offer their services to the work of God. To recognize the large and important part that God plays in human life and living should encourage every person to present himself as a willing servant to God to help make life better through our individual helpfulness."

"The new year is an opportunity to live better and more fully than we have lived in the past. Much of this depends upon how well we have learned our lesson. Have we been keen enough, mentally and honest enough morally and humble enough spiritually to permit our past mistakes and shortcomings to teach us wisdom? Can we view the road over which we come and by its windings discover that there is more direct and straighter way?"

Almost every life insurance policy carries an option which permits the distribution of an income for life to the holder of the contract in old age, or to the widow . . . in lieu of a lump sum settlement.

These arrangements should be made at once. This usually increases the total amount received by beneficiaries 25% or more.

Regardless of the Company in which your insurance is held, I am able to give you information which will be welcome to you. No obligation of any kind.

Miss Wells Is Honored At Shower Here

Miss Martha Wells, fiancée of Lloyd D. Wiant of New York City, was honored last evening at a personal shower given by Misses Cora May Reich and Ruth Obenour at the former's home on N. Lincoln ave.

"LOVE'S INTERLUDE" by -MAY- CHRISTIE

CHAPTER XVII

After a pause by the florist's, Moira's feet would impel her a mile, to Cook's travel agency. There she would arm herself with a free sheaf of travel literature, and that night, after cooking herself a lamb chop or heating up some left-overs for dinner, she would curl up with the illustrated folders and booklets on her divan. The cold of New York would be forgotten, as would her loneliness, nor would her ears call from Tarry that didn't come for she would be off on a magic carpet to Tangier or Kenya.

One wasn't really poor so long as one's imagination could be so stirred!

There were the popular concerts, too. A professional singer who was a customer sometimes gave her tickets. She loved that.

Coming home from a Saturday afternoon concert at Carnegie hall, the janitor of the old building in which she lived down in "The Village" appeared with a bulky, paper-wrapped package addressed to her, with a label: "Perishable. Handle with care."

"Birds, Miss. Pheasant or partridge, I reckon. I'll pluck and clean them for you," volunteered the janitor, who thoroughly approved of the quiet young tenant in the neighborhood where pretty girls who lived alone were not often as alone as they should be, in a manner of thinking.

"That's very kind of you, Mr. Plummer." She followed him to the two rooms he occupied at the rear of the ground floor with his wife. She was irradiated by the thought that Tarry was the donor, though there was no name other than her own upon the label, in blocked letters.

"He's been hunting at his old home," she told herself, "and he's sent them here as a surprise ahead of time, so I may cook them for our dinner tonight!"

Game of any sort was Tarry's meat, cooked in an epicurean manner.

Leaving Mr. Plummer to his task, she fairly flew up the stairs. As usual, the flat was in shipshape order. Out of her street clothes and into the bath-tub, while there was time, for the telephone would be ringing any moment.

Presently, in a bright wool dress of cherry red, and fragrant with toilet water and talcum, she was prepared for that knock on her front door.

But it was only the stocky figure of Mr. Plummer on the doormat, not the elegant Tarry.

"The birds, Miss. As fine a pair as ever I handled."

"Thank you, Mr. Plummer. I'll save some for you and your wife. I promise you that!"

"No trouble at all, Miss. Anything I do for you is okay with me."

She closed the front door. Put the partridges on a big platter in the ice-box.

Now to call up Tarry, to thank him, and ask him when he'd be round to enjoy his present? Perhaps he wasn't back yet?

He lived in a rooming-house on Lexington ave. His landlady answered her ring. "I'll see if he's in his room—" in a begrudging voice.

Then Moira heard her grumble to someone: "Darn that boy and his telephone calls! This is the third time, and me with my rheumatism and four floors to climb!"

It seemed a long time till Tarry's "hello" came over the wire.

"Awfully sorry to disturb you, but this is Moira! You just sent me some lovely partridges, didn't you, Tarry?" The fact that her own voice was so uncertain surprised her. And she felt shy, too.

"What's that? Partridges? Is it a gag, or what?"—a touch of impatience in his tone.

"They only just came. You didn't send them, you mean?"

Even as she put the question, she was aware, in her sensitiveness, that Tarry was probably thinking she'd made up a story as a pretext to get with him. She felt disconcerted.

He laughed. It sounded a little embarrassed. He said: "I suppose I do owe you a dinner, darling—in fact, several dinners—but unfortunately I haven't got the where-withal, if you want the honest truth!"

The hot blood rushed to her face, though there was no one to see.

"If you think I was trying to get a dinner out of you, you are mistaken."

"I only called you up because I thought you'd sent me the partridges, and might want to help cook and eat them tonight!"

"A thousand thanks for thinking of me, Moira. You're a dear, I hope you won't hold it against me that I didn't send anything to you. As for seeing you tonight, I hate to disappoint you, but I don't have the evening open. If you'd called me sooner—"

She thought (humiliated and annoyed at the patronage of that "I hate to disappoint you") of his landlady's grudging reference to previous telephone calls that afternoon. He was popular. Women chased him for his youth, his charm, his good looks. She was only one of many. That's why he hadn't bothered with her lately.

"I'm not disappointed in the least," she flashed. "And I don't see why you think it's I who should make the telephone calls! It's nothing to me that you didn't send them—I only wanted to find out!"

"Pardon the poor pun, but to give me the bird for not having sent you the bird is cruel, darling! Can't we eat them tomorrow night? Is that a bargain?"

"I'd thought of going to Sunday night service."

"Good lord! Why that?"

"I always think the week goes better if I can listen to a Sunday sermon sometimes. Does that seem strange to you, Tarry?"

"Er—somewhat."

A pause. Would he insist? If he cried off now that she'd given him a chance, she'd know his feeling for her was definitely on the wane.

But pride upheld her. Pride and her hurt. With a sixth sense, she could feel him hesitating.

"Postpone the good works for another week. Or, if you have to, go to morning service. Let's eat the other fellow's gift at half-past six, and if he phones you in the meantime, tell him to go to the devil!"

She laughed tremulously. This was the debonair Tarry of old.

"I can't help you with the cooking, darling, because I have a golf appointment. A fellow must get some exercise. But I'll expect a welcome on the doormat tomorrow at six-thirty," he said blithely.

Moira had plenty to do in preparation for next evening.

There was the new green dress to be altered and made smaller, that she had bought two days ago at a basement bargain sale. She had bought it for its spring-like shimmer. It reminded her of sunshine filtering through young leaves, as on that picnic years ago when she had first met Tarry.

The neck-line must be cut square, in the new style. The sleeves shortened into youthful little puffs. The bodice shirred tightly. The skirt was full and long, and left as is, would complete a quaintly pretty costume.

One had an idea or two of one's own, one could work wonders on nothing!

But first she must do her shopping. The stores along Fourteenth street kept open late on a Saturday night.

She found some chintz she wanted for a window-drapes, at fifteen cents the yard. Yellow and blue irises—or were they lupins—splashed on a brown, shiny background.

She bought enough of this to also cover two feather cushions for the divan.

Her pale green gown would be lovely in this brown-and-golden setting, and to further carry out the color-scheme she bought small bunches of shaggy chrysanthemums that were tawny and golden also.

Her marketing necessitated two trips from her flat.

She was extravagant about this dinner. Everything must be perfect, just as it was in the houses Tarry visited. She had the funniest feeling that this Sunday-night dinner would be a turning point in her life.

She would buy a bottle of old Madeira wine. A little of it would be sacrificed in the cooking of the partridges, and the rest they would drink with the main course.

QUAKERS LOSE TO ALUMNI IN OVERTIME, 24-22

Max Lutsch Hits Winning Goal For Ex-High Cagers In "Sudden Death" Period

Alumni Stages Sizzling Rally in Final Period To Come From Behind and Tie Score; Quakers Held to One Point in Last Quarter

Closing fast in the fourth quarter to tie the score and force the game into overtime, a star-studded Alumni basketball team went on to defeat Salem High school's Quakers, 24 to 22, in a thrilling battle at the High school gym last night.

The Ex-Highs, including five members of the Salem team which went to the state finals in 1936-37 in their lineup, copped the verdict in a "sudden death" overtime period after a sizzling rally in the fourth period.

The pay-off shot was sent swishing through the meshwork by Max Lutsch after outmaneuvering his guard deep in the southwest corner of the court. The overtime period was less than a minute old when Lutsch connected for the winning goal.

Second Defeat
The defeat was the second the Quakers have suffered in three games to date but in view of the strong opposition they faced, the setback meant no harm to their prestige. The Alumni victory marked the second straight year that the Ex-Highs have defeated the High school team.

The first half of the battle was close, with neither team able to gain a commanding lead. The Alumni was out in front, 5 to 4, at the end of the first period, but the

SCHEDULE CHANGE
A change in the Salem High school basketball schedule was announced Friday night by Faculty Manager Frederick E. Cope.

The change will bring the Quakers' game with Youngstown Chaney, originally scheduled to be played in Youngstown, to the Salem floor next Saturday night. The Salem team will face Dover next Friday night, then return home for the game with Chaney. Cope said the change was made at the request of Chaney school officials, who reported their new gym is not ready to be used as yet. The Salem-Chaney contest was to be the dedication game for the gym.

Quakers closed the gap mid-way in the second period, then took a one-point lead which they continued to hold until half time. The score at the intermission was 11 to 10 with the High school lads on top.

The Alumni quintet's defense crumbled in the third period and the Quakers took advantage of their opponents' slump to gain a lead which, at the time, appeared certain to hold up throughout the remainder of the game.

The Quakers led 21 to 12 at the close of the third quarter (after scoring 10 points while holding the Alumni to a pair of free throws).

Regaining their stride, the Ex-Highs started a rally early in the fourth period and continued to cut down the Quakers' lead until they tied the score at 22-22 in the dying seconds of the game.

The Quakers led 22 to 21 with two minutes to play, but after attempting to stall the play in mid-court, they lost possession of the ball when only 45 seconds remained to play. A few seconds later Guard Glenn McLaughlin fouled Max Lutsch and Lutsch converted the free throw to tie the score. The period ended before either team could break the deadlock.

Each team missed one shot at the basket in the overtime before Lutsch connected for the field goal which gave the Alumni the victory.

Rough Game
The game was rough in the third and fourth quarters, three players being sent to the bench for committing too many fouls. The Quakers lost center Mike Thomas in the third period and McLaughlin in the fourth period via the personal foul route, while the Alumni lost John Lutsch in the last quarter via the same route.

The Quakers were given 22 free shots from the foul line, but made only eight of these. The Alumni converted six of 14 free throws.

A rangy East Fairfield team, paced by D. Reash, B. Reash and

BOWLING RESULTS

Moving up from second place as they won three games from the Sinclairs, the Grate Recreation ladies took over the lead in the Grate Ladies' league last night.

The Recreation team jumped ahead of Endres-Gross ladies, former league leaders, who were held to two wins by Finney Beauty Shoppe. Other matches saw the Trades Class win two games from Brownie's, Smith Garage take three games from Jean Frocks and the Church Budget win three heats with the Sunny Beauty Shoppe.

Mrs. Ruth Hine and Miss Frances Grate turned in high series for the night, Mrs. Hine hitting 550 on consistent games of 180, 182 and 188 and Miss Grate totaling 534 on games of 192, 133 and 209.

The leading Meissner's Service team dropped two games to Brownie's Service in the Federal league at the Masonic alleys last night, but remained in first place despite the setbacks.

The Ohio Edison Dodgers climbed to within one game of tying Meissner's as they took two out of three games with the Sanitary Shippers. In other Federal matches, the Sanitary Foremen won three games from the K. of C. and the Eagles were awarded three wins on a forfeit by the National Brass & Copper.

Tennessee, Southern Cal Taper Off In Practices For Rose Bowl Contest

Vols Still Worried Over Condition of George Cafego; Orange and Sugar Bowl Teams Set For Their Big Games New Year's Day

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 30.—The Rose Bowl football rivals, Southern California and Tennessee, went to the practice field for the last time today, winding up preparations for their New Year's day engagement before a sell-out throng of more than 90,000 spectators.

The outlook for both elevens was precisely the same as it was when they agreed to meet in this oldest of all New Year's day grid offerings Dec. 9. Speedy, shifty Tennessee, undefeated, untied and unscored upon, has one injury problem to cope with; the much publicized knee of George Cafego, tailback star of the Vols for three years.

Southern California has no casualties to key men to worry about. Over-confidence might be the main thing Coach Howard Jones has to confront.

Coach Robert R. Neyland of the Knoxville aggregation apparently was pleased with the team's training progress since it reached Pasadena last Sunday, although he was anxious about distractions of the visitor-entertainment variety earlier in the week. The ex-army major seldom discusses matters of this sort outside the circle of his aides.

ORANGE TEAMS READY
MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 30.—Except for eleventh-hour skull sessions and limberups, the Missouri and Georgia Tech football teams are about as ready as they'll ever be for the Orange Bowl game.

Coach Don Faurot planned a final light rehearsal in the bowl to day for Missouri's Big Six champions. Coach Bill Alexander promised the Engineers a taper-off drill, with a get-acquainted session at the stadium on tap tomorrow.

40 ARE KILLED IN RAIL WRECK

Express Train Crashes
Into Troop Train Near
Naples, Italy

(By Associated Press)
NAPLES, Dec. 30.—At least 40 persons were killed and 150 injured today when an express train crashed into the rear of a troop train at the Torre Annunziata station, 18 miles south of here.

Rescuers searched the wreckage for more bodies.
The fast passenger train plunged into the rear of the train carrying soldiers, which was standing on a siding at the station.

The passenger train had the right of way, investigators said, and was to have passed, but a switch apparently failed to function.

The express plunged onto the siding and ploughed into the cars, full of troops, including high ranking officers.
Two inches of snow and intense cold hampered rescue work.

Automobiles, trucks and horse drawn carriages were pressed into service to transport the injured to the Torre Annunziata hospital. Some of the injured were brought to Naples.

Both trains were coming from Calabria in southern Italy.

Fall Is Fatal

EAST LIVERPOOL, Dec. 30.—George Pugh, 66, retired coal miner, died in city hospital last night as an aftermath of a fall down an outside stairway Christmas night, police said.

Pugh suffered a crushed chest, punctured lung, broken ribs, and a dislocated shoulder.

Fumes Kill Couple

YOUNGSTOWN, Dec. 30.—The death of a young couple in a room they rented yesterday was attributed by police to monoxide poison fumes from a gas heater.

Capt. Dominic Thompson said the two were identified as Vincent Cameron and Millie Washington, both of Youngstown.

Dionne Quints May Be Reunited With Their Family in '41

(By Associated Press)

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—The prospect that the Dionne quintuplets will be reunited with their parents and seven brothers and sisters in 1941 came to the forefront today with the decision of Dr. Allan Roy Dafeo to retire from the board of guardians of the famous five-year-olds.

The Ontario government must accept Dr. Dafeo's resignation before the decision will take effect, but informed sources said that step was assured. Henri St. Jacques, lawyer for Oliva Dionne, father of the quintuplets, said the resignation would take place "about the middle of next month."

St. Jacques said an agreement had been reached "recently" between Dionne and Dr. Dafeo under which the doctor would devote himself to caring for the health of the quintuplets while "all suits brought by Dionne against Dr. Dafeo will be dropped."

Government circles further said that, under the agreement, considered by the doctor and Dionne, Dr. Dafeo would recommend to the government that the quintuplets be reunited with their parents and brothers and sisters.

The little girls have lived in the Dafeo nursery, near the Dionne home, since they were three months old.
